

Carolina May

Subtly startled into wakefulness pillow softness presses fills her nostrils, lungs enveloped in sweet warmth she hovers then ascends on a cloud of honeysuckle childhood floods memory plucking the tiny white buds tasting the dab of sweetness like no other honey